Dear {{ name }},

The arts inspire student success.

We believe that every child in our community deserves the arts education opportunities in their schools and out-of-school programs. That's why our donors help create more than 400,000 enriching student arts experiences each year.

Studies prove art exposure promotes self-directed learning, improves school attendance, and sharpens critical and creative skills. In 2018, we served more than 450 schools but were only able to fund half of education requests we received.

Meet Mehwish, a recent Iroquois High School graduate, who participated in a powerful writing program supported by the Fund. She published her story about fleeing her war-torn Pakistani town and finding refuge in Louisville through the literary arts.

Help write the uplifting story of students across our community with your pledge now. Click here to give today.

Thank you!
