BallotBox/Louisville Metro

- Age Range: 9-21
- Discipline: Public Art and Arts Education
- Cultural Pass Offerings:
 - BallotBox is a Louisville Visual Art exhibit for Louisville Metro Hall curated by Skylar Smith. BallotBox uses an intersectional lens to examine past and present voting rights and connections between this year's 100th Anniversary of the 19th Amendment, the 55th Anniversary of the Voting Rights Act; and the presidential and state-wide elections. 2020 is a significant year for reflection on what a vote is worth, while also considering contemporary voter engagement and the monumental efforts in past decades to secure voting rights in the United States. Using art as a catalyst for community engagement, BallotBox will explore issues related to voting rights, democracy, and citizenship to inspire voter engagement and create a public dialog about how we can build a more equitable democracy. Cultural Pass participants can view artwork from the exhibition, answer questions from the artists, and participate in an online dialog about voting rights!

 - Option 1
 - Still Life (ages 11-13)
 - In this activity, geared toward ages 11-13, children will be asked to look at a still life from the Speed's collection and consider questions related to what they see. For example, what hidden symbolism might be discovered in the different flowers used in an arrangement? They will then watch an art-making video that teaches them how to press flowers and make their own still life arrangements.
 - Option 2

- Landscapes (ages 8-10)
- In this activity, geared toward ages 8-10, children will be asked to look at a landscape from the Speed's collection and consider questions related to what they see. For example, what is happening in the foreground, middle ground, and background of this landscape? They will then watch an art-making video that encourages them to create torn paper landscapes.
- Option 3
 - Portraits (ages 5-7)
 - In this activity, geared toward ages 5-7, children will be asked to look at a portrait from the Speed's collection and consider questions related to what they see. For example, what clues has the artist included that tell us something about the woman in this painting? They will then watch an art-making video that encourages them to make portraits using recycled items found around their house.

Young Authors Greenhouse

- Age Range: 6-18
- Discipline: Literature/Poetry/Writing, Public Art, Visual Arts, Arts Education
- Cultural Pass Offerings:
 - Petals and Poetry
 - Seeking and Creating Hope
 - A poetry and art program for students to share and document their thoughts and feelings—all submissions will be considered for publication in a book about the experiences of our city's young people during the pandemic.
 - Students will embark on a journey of discovery, joy, and gratitude. Students will search for fallen petals and nature to create a collage that reflects their thoughts and feelings. After the collages are created, students will then turn to poetry and write odes, celebratory poems that give thanks. We encourage the poets to write odes to healthcare workers, teachers, grocery workers, friends, family, or anyone who is on their mind right now! Students will then use their collages to inspire their writing and describe the person using Golden Details—sight, smell, hearing, taste, touch, alliteration, simile, personification, and metaphor—sharing hope and kindness while we are Healthy at Home.
